With regards to trading strategies there is no limitation on the number of transactions performed by account(s) during the day. Trading strategies where transaction(s) are executed within a short time scale may be permitted by the Company for as long as the trading strategy used by the Client is not considered abusive. However, trading strategies that rely solely on arbitrage opportunities and/or riskless arbitrage may be revoked as in these cases, Windsor reserves the right to make necessary corrections and adjustments on Clients' account(s).

More information is available in 'Trading Conditions' and 'Client Account Agreement' (Abusive Strategies section) under 'Legal Documents' on the Portal or on our website.
